Editorial

Greetings from the new Editor-in-Chief

I am very proud to be appointed Editor-in-Chief of the Journal of Cardiology, the official journal of the Japanese College of Cardiology, an academic society focused on clinical cardiology. The Journal publishes diverse content encompassing basic cardiovascular disease research, translational research for clinical applications, clinical research on the latest diagnostic strategies, prospective cohort studies, and interventional clinical research. Papers are submitted from a wide range of regions, including Asia, Europe, South America, and Oceania. In addition, Journal papers can be accessed and downloaded from Europe, the United States, Asia, Oceania, Africa, and other regions. We will continue to maintain this diversity and internationality while aiming for further development. To this end, we plan to promote internationalization in our editorial board members and appoint younger members. We also plan to promptly publish the guidelines that are being jointly developed by the Japanese Circulation Society and the Japanese College of Cardiology. We look forward to receiving a wide range of submissions from you.
